

ABSTRACT

a¹ The present invention relates to a composition for laser processing containing a polymer (A) having 45% or more by mass of an ethylene unit as a repeating unit that is crosslinked with an organic peroxide (B) and a seal containing this composition. The composition of the present invention is useful for laser processing without odor emissions and fuming during laser processing and has minimal surface stickiness.